

▲ 0 ☁ 48°

☰ SHOW TRANSCRIPT

Advertisement

Black Ice Pond Hockey organizers say ice is ready

Annual tournament celebrates anniversary

Updated: 11:37 PM EST Jan 23, 2020

Jean Mackin

News Anchor/Reporter

CONCORD, N.H. — The Black Ice Pond Hockey Championship is back on for this weekend in Concord.

Advertisement

The tournament was originally postponed until Feb. 7.

Apparently Mother Nature is a hockey fan too, because the determination was made that the ice is ready for players and fans, so the event was changed back to this weekend.

President of Black Ice Pond Hockey Chris Brown says “it has been cold all week so we’ve got plenty of ice whether it snows or rains. We’ll just deal with it.”

He says that everyone is welcome to enjoy this free event, they will have heated spectator tent and a fireworks display is planned as well.

The tournament is celebrating their 10th year.